

Mint Street

London, United Kingdom

We write about Mint Street, London, full of pride. Designed by Michael Anastassiades for the Landmark Projects - London Design Festival 2018 and in partnership with the First Stone (Primeira Pedra) International Program.

With environmental awareness and recycling of materials, Mint Street was supplied with waste and discarded remains that result from the extraction of Portuguese marble which would have no use. This harmonious combination and composition make Mint Street a British street full of Portuguese pride.

For this project, our company provided Portuguese marble with 2cm thickness: Rosa Aurora Light, Rosa Aurora Cream, Rosa Aurora Pink and Ruivina.
