

Bathroom in Algarve

Lagos, Algarve, Portugal

For this small bathroom located in Algarve, the choice went to Walnut Travertine, a material that needs no compliments because of the strength it transmits in each photograph or look.

The option for the vertical veining allowed a perfect match between the different pieces, creating the illusion of an unique 2,4m height piece. In fact, there are colored grouted joints that, due to the excellent continuity of the vein from one piece to the other, are almost invisible.

A special “thank you” to the client that photographed the division and sent us the pictures.
